DATE	TIME	SHOW #	TOPIC
4/1/2013	25:00	1176	Bullying has been an unfortunate part of the school culture for, well, probably as long as there have been schools. But in recent years, there have been organized efforts get end bullying, even as the practice has gone high tech. Today on The Best Of Our Knowledge, we present the first installment in a five part series on bullying. We'll also hear about a project from Cornell University that hopes to help young married people learn from older married people. It's a portrait of a university professor of chemistry at Tufts...and we'll spend an academic minute learning the intricate example of physics that is the Slinky.
4/8/2013	25:00	1177	Think about some of the conditions on the newly formed planet Earth. Volcanic activity, temperatures around 100 degrees Celsius...not exactly a garden spot for life. But research now is discovering new species of bacteria that can thrive in those conditions...and they are still around today. Today on The Best Of Our Knowledge, our Astrobiology Series returns with a look at the discovery of new species of life on earth in the hot spots of the planet. Plus we'll spend an academic minute finding out how some conditions on today's Earth can force a change in the way some living things process carbon and oxygen.
4/15/2013	25:00	1178	Technology and social media has made communication and staying in touch easier than ever. Unfortunately, it's also made bullying easier than ever and the problem is expected to get worse. Today on The Best Of Our Knowledge, our series on bullying goes cyber. We'll also hear how some students really feel about high school, follow some students as they travel from Canada to Russia...and spend an academic minute finding out what sign language reveals about the brain.
4/22/2013	25:00	1179	One of the truisms of life is the older we get, the better we were when we were younger. The same seems to be true when it comes to the founding fathers of the US. And the founder who seems to be getting the most attention and praise over the past few years is Thomas Jefferson. Today on The Best Of Our Knowledge it's time for another History Class, focusing on a new biography of Jefferson and what he meant...and continues to mean...to the nation he helped create. We'll also spend an academic minute looking at another time in history, the time that inspired Les Misérables.
4/29/2013	25:00	1180	As efforts to end bullying in schools continues, a lot of time and study is being put into trying to find out who may be the most likely targets of bullies...and why. Today on The Best Of Our Knowledge, part three of our five part series on bullying. We'll also talk about another student safety issue...the safety of students who

			travel abroad and what can be done to make sure your child is safe while studying in a foreign land. We'll meet a young lady who is proud to be a nerd...and we'll spend an academic minute finding out how social media is affecting our behavior.
5/6/2013	25:00	1181	Since the 16th century, scientists have speculated about exo-planets. Which are, quite simply, planets that exist outside our solar system and orbit other stars in the galaxy. However it wasn't until the 1980s that the first confirmed discovery of an exo-planet was documented. Today on The Best Of Our Knowledge, our Astrobiology Series returns featuring a fascinating conversation with a University of Chicago researcher about exo-planets. Plus we'll spend an academic minute finding out how some tiny stowaways in space could cause big problems for future space missions.
5/13/2013	25:00	1182	As more attention is being given to the problem of bullying in school, more attention is being focused on the bullies themselves. What is it that causes a bully to be a bully? Today on The Best Of Our Knowledge, we'll look into the minds of bullies, and then hear from the NIH about predicting psychological illness. We'll also hear about a cheating scandal at a New York State university that is causing concern throughout the region. And we'll spend an academic minute feeling good about ourselves.
5/20/2013	25:00	1183	If someone is going to make a joke about a college major, Art History is usually the first target. But art history can be an important look at the social and political history of an era...and that was never more evident than the Renaissance. Today on The Best Of Our Knowledge, we'll take a look at the history of that historically creative time through the lens of two of its giants: Leonardo Da Vinci and Michelangelo. And we'll spend an academic minute with another cultural giant: Dr. Who.
5/27/2013	25:00	1184	Bullying in schools is no longer a dirty little secret. As awareness of the problem grows, the call for answers gets louder. So, what's next? What can be done to make bullying a thing of the past. Today on The Best Of Our Knowledge, the final installment of our five part series on bullying. We'll also hear from a journalist who set out to write a book about the over-medication of today's children...and wound up coming to a totally different conclusion. And we'll spend an academic minute exploring the surprising gender gap in college.
6/3/2013	25:00	1185	Are schools killing creativity in today's young people. According to Sir Ken Robinson they are. He has written about getting to most out of your talents and his new book continues the message. Today on The Best Of Our Knowledge, a conversation with Sir Ken Robinson.

			We'll also hear how budget cut backs have changed the lives of some teachers in Chicago and spend an academic minute hearing how family dinners are good for the soul.
6/10/13	25:00	1186	I don't think anyone would argue with the fact that swift and amazing changes have taken place in this, the digital age. But according to a pair of executives from Google, we ain't seen nothing yet. Today on The Best Of Our Knowledge, we'll hear a conversation with this pair of high tech execs about what they call the NEW digital age. We'll also hear about technology you can wear...and how it is improving the study of people with autism.
6/17/13	25:00	1187	Although some high school students might disagree with this, science is not a dry topic. In fact, studying life on Earth, or on any other planet for that matter has to begin in water. Today on The Best Of Our Knowledge, our Astrobiology Series returns with a look at the importance of water in the study...and the origins of life. Plus we'll spend an academic minute finding out why humidity makes it harder to keep your cold drink cold.
6/24/13	25:00	1188	A subject we've hit on a lot here is the challenge of reviving inner city schools and giving those students equal opportunities with more affluent districts. Funny thing...it's happening right now. Today on The Best Of Our Knowledge, we'll hear about some improbable scholars turning around a school system in New Jersey. We'll also meet a man who keeps a school system musical without playing a single note...hear commentary about keeping things fun...and spend an academic minute learning about yesterday's climate on today's Hudson River.

Issue: Autism
Program: Public File 2
Date: May 5, 2013

Description: Families for Early Autism Treatment, Inc. (FEAT) is a non-profit organization of parents, family members, and treatment professionals, designed to help families with children of all ages who have an Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD), which includes Autistic Disorder, Pervasive Developmental Disorder, Not Otherwise Specified (PDD-NOS), and Aspergers's Disorder (AS). It offers a network of support where families can meet each other to discuss issues surrounding autism and treatment options. FEAT has a Board of Directors that meets monthly to discuss issues, establish priorities, and vote on the direction of the organization. They maintain a website and publishes a quarterly newsletter which contains current news and events. FEAT operates a Lending Library where families can obtain information about Autism and check out teaching materials for their children's therapy programs. There are multiple locations of the Lending Library and the materials are provided to families free of charge. FEAT's Parent Mentoring Program offers one to one assistance to families who want to learn about Autism and how to treat it. Veteran parents work with beginning parents individually to share the scientifically based roadmap of treatment and self advocacy that has been successful for those who have walked the path previously. FEAT also offers two support meetings: 1) The Family Resource Meeting, and 2) The Family Empowerment Forum. These meetings are planned to provide treatment and self advocacy information to families whose children have been diagnosed with Autism, and to provide access to a network of families who can be supportive. Throughout the year, FEAT has social, recreational events, and field trips that are designed to give children opportunities to practice social skills in safe and typical environments, and to give family members a venue to enjoy each others company. These activities are important occasions for parents and children because this is when many friendships are formed and fostered.

Issue: Charter Schools
Program: Public File 2
Date: June 9, 2013

Description: Charter schools are public schools. They are tuition-free and open to any student who wishes to attend. Charter schools allow parents, organizations, or community groups to restore, reinvent, and reenergize our public school system. Charter schools are designed, tailored, and governed by each local community, rather than by a central bureaucracy. Charter schools are tuition-free, public schools that operate independently from the school district's central bureaucracy. Each charter school is governed by its own local school community, which often includes parents and teachers - rather than a district. This freedom allows teachers to be more innovative, and communities to shape their local school. Charter schools are open to ALL children and they are committed to serving a student body that reflects the local community. Research evidence shows that charter school students are just as diverse (racially and economically) as non-charter students. By law, charter schools can never have selective admissions; anyone can apply and, if more students want to attend than there are seats available, there is a lottery to determine who is admitted.

Issue: Common Human Resources Issues
Program: Public File 2
Date: June 2, 2013

Description: Human resource professionals play an important strategic role in early 21st century businesses. Attracting and retaining talented employees and motivating them to perform at optimum levels are common traits in high-performing companies. HR professionals and management collaborate to overcome some common challenges involved in hiring, training and leading employees. Many of the issues faced by HR professionals are related to the heightened legal challenges faced by companies. Interpreting and working with the Family Medical Leave Act and Fair Labor Standards Act are examples. HR professionals need to be knowledgeable about the ins and outs of employee laws, the education of managers who apply them and the implementation of hiring and management policies that adapt to them. Immigration and diverse workforces have placed more emphasis on citizenship documentation. Distinguishing between independent contract workers and company employees and addressing workplace privacy issues related to technology use present additional legal challenges for HR professionals. HR professionals spend significant time developing hiring processes that emphasize fairness and follow legal requirements. Interview questions are designed to focus specifically on the requirements for a given job. Applications and other screening tools are also job specific. HR professionals train supervisors and hiring managers to consistently follow guidelines and stick to the script when interviewing. Managers who ask questions outside of those asked of all candidates risk getting into trouble with an upset candidate who isn't hired, which causes legal headaches for the company.

Issue: Tattoo Removal
Program: Public File 2
Date: April 21, 2013

Description: Eric Zacharias M.D. started Inkoff.me to fill what he saw as a need in the community. Having worked for some time in several local emergency departments, he was aware of the many gang tattoos and facial tattoos that can make it hard for an individual to find a job or leave a gang culture. Inkoff.me is a chance to give anyone who desires it, a clean slate. Laser tattoo removal uses laser light to break up tattoo ink into small particles that your body will absorb naturally. The laser penetrates the outer skin layers and only targets the tattoo ink. Your body's immune system then removes the particles. Black, red and dark blue color pigments are easiest to remove. Other colors, such as green, are more difficult to remove.

Issue: Multiple Sclerosis
Program: Public File 2
Date: April 29, 2013

Description: Multiple Sclerosis is a chronic often disabling disease of the central nervous system. In young adults, it is one of the most common central nervous system diseases. Symptoms may be mild (e.g., numbness in the limbs) or severe (e.g., paralysis or loss of vision). Multiple Sclerosis affects women 50% more than men. Most people with Multiple Sclerosis are diagnosed between the ages of 20 and 40. Multiple Sclerosis is rarely found in people younger than 12 or older than 55. There are approximately one third of a million Americans with Multiple Sclerosis, and every week some 200 people are diagnosed with the disease. That is more than one person an hour. Across the world, about 2.5 million people have the disease. The progress, severity and specific symptoms of Multiple Sclerosis in any one person cannot yet be predicted, but advances in research and treatment are giving hope to those affected by the disease.

Program: Public File 2
Date: April 14, 2013

Description: The Sacramento Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (SSPCA) was established in 1894 and is dedicated to ensuring the humane treatment of all animals in the Sacramento area. They provide a safe and nurturing environment for unwanted, abandoned and mistreated pets until they can be placed into loving homes. Through proactive intervention, public education and community outreach, the Sacramento SPCA seeks to promote respect for all life by breaking the cycle of abuse, neglect and pet overpopulation in our communities. These accomplishments happen without any government, state or city funding. The Sacramento SPCA is a local, independent non-profit organization and is supported through private contributions. The Sacramento SPCA will care for more than 13,500 homeless animals this year. Pet overpopulation is still at crisis levels in the Sacramento area. The area's three major shelters receive more than 40,000 homeless animals each year. The solution is spay/neuter. The Sacramento SPCA operates the area's only high-volume spay/neuter clinic which alters 25,000 animals annually.

Description: B.R.A.V.E. (Bullies Really Are Violating Everyone™) Society was founded from heartache and a desire to see it never happen again. They are a Sacramento based non-profit 501 (c) 3 grass roots corporation that is dedicated to creating peer abuse awareness that demands accountability while calling for action; in order to help empower children with the resiliency necessary to become confident and caring adults. Lisa Ford Berry lost her youngest son Michael Joseph Berry on his 17th birthday due to a peer abuse driven bullycide in response to relentless hate-biased cyberbullying. Lisa's passion is teaching parents how to maneuver through the bureaucracy of the educational system, along with giving children a voice of power. She founded B.R.A.V.E. (Bullies Really Are Violating Everyone) Society to put an end to the peer abuse plaguing society and stealing young lives.

Description: Families for Early Autism Treatment, Inc. (FEAT) is a non-profit organization of parents, family members, and treatment professionals, designed to help families with children of all ages who have an Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD), which includes Autistic Disorder, Pervasive Developmental Disorder, Not Otherwise Specified (PDD-NOS), and Aspergers's Disorder (AS). It offers a network of support where families can meet each other to discuss issues surrounding autism and treatment options. FEAT has a Board of Directors that meets monthly to discuss issues, establish priorities, and vote on the direction of the organization. They maintain a website and publishes a quarterly newsletter which contains current news and events. FEAT operates a Lending Library where families can obtain information about Autism and check out teaching materials for their children's therapy programs. There are multiple locations of the Lending Library and the materials are provided to families free of charge. FEAT's Parent Mentoring Program offers one to one assistance to families who want to learn about Autism and how to treat it. Veteran parents work with beginning parents individually to share the scientifically based roadmap of treatment and self advocacy that has been successful for those who have walked the path previously. FEAT also offers two support meetings: 1) The Family Resource Meeting, and 2) The Family Empowerment Forum. These meetings are planned to provide treatment and self advocacy information to families whose children have been diagnosed with Autism, and to provide access to a network of families who can be supportive. Throughout the year, FEAT has social, recreational events, and field trips that are designed to give children opportunities to practice social skills in safe and typical environments, and to give family members a venue to enjoy each others company. These activities are important occasions for parents and children because this is when many friendships are formed and fostered.

Description: The Me-One Foundation is a non-profit corporation created to provide adult cancer patients and their families with an environment where they can be allowed to embrace life without cancer as the first and foremost thought of their every waking moment. The Me-One Foundation will provide families with activities and events to promote courage, hope, laughter, and enjoyment through Camp Challenge. Camp Challenge is a no-cost camp for families afflicted by cancer and in need of a place of joy and relaxation that will focus them on living life, and not fighting disease. By providing this haven of hope, we allow families to be victorious, even if temporarily, over cancer, and keeping life's scoreboard at Cancer-Zero; Me-One.

Description: Charter schools are public schools. They are tuition-free and open to any student who wishes to attend. Charter schools allow parents, organizations, or community groups to restore, reinvent, and reenergize our public school system. Charter schools are designed, tailored, and governed by each local community, rather than by a central bureaucracy. Charter schools are tuition-free, public schools that operate independently from the school district's central bureaucracy. Each charter school is governed by its own local school community, which often includes parents and teachers - rather than a district. This freedom allows teachers to be more innovative, and communities to shape their local school. Charter schools are open to ALL children and they are committed to serving a student body that reflects the local community. Research evidence shows that charter school students are just as diverse (racially and economically) as non-charter students. By law, charter schools can never have selective admissions; anyone can apply and, if more students want to attend than there are seats available, there is a lottery to determine who is admitted.

The Rockefeller Foundation believes social impact bonds may be the answer. Investors pay for services, service providers do their job, and government pays the investors back if and only if the outcome meets expectations. I spoke with Kippy Joseph, Associate Director, Innovation at the Rockefeller Foundation of why social impact bonds might be the right idea at the right time. March is officially Women's History Month – and this week we're profiling a woman who believes we should never take “impossible” for an answer. After being told she wasn't particularly smart, Mary Shultz, a professor of chemistry at Tufts University, set out to prove otherwise. When my mother was a child, her mother made clothes for all the children in the family. Sewing was a necessary skill. Now, skilled tailoring is a dying art. Passed March 6 after the legislature overrode a gubernatorial veto, the Arkansas law prohibits abortion after 12 weeks of pregnancy. Similar bills are soon to be taken up in Ohio and Kansas. Yet women in STEM earned 33 percent more than comparable women in jobs outside the science and math fields. According to the book, Presumed Incompetent – The Intersections of Race and Class for Women of Color in Academia, that's the reality for minority women teaching at the college level. They're reached the Ivory Tower – the professional world where ability and achievement are rewarded with tenure – a secure, well-paying job. But they aren't like to get in. The book is a combination of studies and essays – offering statistical data and personal experience to back up the assertion that minority women face quiet (and sometimes not so quiet) discrimination on the job – not just from their peers and college administrators, but from their students. It's not a huge population – women of color held only ten percent of instructor positions at US college six years ago – and the numbers decline as you go up the academic ranks. Carmen Gonzalez, a professor of law at Seattle University School of Law, is one of the editors of Presumed Incompetent. Meals on Wheels, Head Start, unemployment, food safety – they're all facing similar cuts. Terry O'Neill, the president of the National Organization for Women – NOW – argues many of those cuts target women and families. And she warns that cuts without job stimulation is a recipe for disaster. We've heard what National Organization for Women president Terry O'Neill has to say about the impacts of austerity measures on the nation's women She discussed the growing divide between rich and poor, the disappearing middle class and the fact that women carry a disproportionate share of the load – both through cuts to social programs aimed at helping women and families, and cuts to jobs are where women predominate – teaching and social services. As we continued our conversation, O'Neill talked about grooming a new group of women leaders – and encouraging more women to get involved. Now, let's mix a little high society and springtime planting. Modern science has given us a vaccine to protect against Lyme disease, but we don't use it. It's an important break in dealing with an illness that many doctors have been slow in acknowledging. Often, people suffering from chronic fatigue are told their problems are all in their head. Producer Briana O'Higgins created these narratives of three women battling chronic fatigue. New cancer studies are recognizing common elements in diverse cancers – and researchers are looking into whether treatment needs to focus on those common elements – instead of simply where the cancer manifests. The hope is that someday cancer will be a survivable, chronic illness – like diabetes or AIDS. But the experience of cancer is very different depending which country you live in. There are some things about breast cancer that are universal. There's the initial fear and the sense that your body has turned against you. After that, experiences diverge. Reporter Joanne Silberner of Seattle, Washington, had one experience. A woman in Uganda, where there are few treatment options and the disease carries a stigma, had a very different one.

Commonly known as death with dignity legislation, similar laws were approved by referendum or court order in Oregon, Washington and Montana. The laws have strict safeguards – Vermont's legislation requires the patient to be over 18, have less than six months to live, and must have asked for assistance at least once before – and the patient has the right to change his or her mind at any time. Program: Public File 1

Description: Ride To Walk's mission is to enhance the lives of children and young adults with neurological disabilities by providing innovative therapeutic horseback riding activities that are recreational in nature and adapted to the individual's needs and abilities. Ride To Walk strives to provide a positive support system for individuals with disabilities, their parents/caregivers, and our community. They currently provide weekly therapy sessions for children and young adults with disabilities such as: autism, cerebral palsy, muscular dystrophy, attention deficit disorder, head trauma and sensory processing challenges. The benefits of horseback riding are as numerous as the types of disabilities and conditions served. Research shows that students who participate in therapeutic riding can experience physical, emotional and mental rewards. Because horseback riding gently and rhythmically moves the rider's body in a manner similar to a human gait, riders with physical disabilities often show improvement in flexibility, balance and muscle strength. For individuals with mental or emotional disabilities, the unique relationship formed with the horse can lead to increased confidence, patience and self-esteem. The sense of independence found on horseback benefits all who ride. The therapeutic qualities of horseback riding are recognized by many medical professionals, including the American Physical Therapy Association and the American Occupational Therapy Association.

Description: Cystic fibrosis is an inherited chronic disease that affects the lungs and digestive system of about 30,000 children and adults in the United States (70,000 worldwide). A defective gene and its protein product cause the body to produce unusually thick, sticky mucus that clogs the lungs and leads to life-threatening lung infections and obstructs the pancreas and stops natural enzymes from helping the body break down and absorb food. The Cystic Fibrosis Foundation is the world's leader in the search for a cure for cystic fibrosis. They fund more CF research than any other organization, and nearly every CF drug available today was made possible because of Foundation support. They are a nonprofit donor-supported organization dedicated to attacking cystic fibrosis from every angle. Their focus is to support the development of new drugs to fight the disease, improve the quality of life for those with CF, and ultimately to find a cure. The Foundation played an integral role in the development and FDA approval of five therapies that are now part of regular treatment regimens for many with CF. The Foundation has a robust pipeline of promising potential drugs that target the disease from every angle.

Description: The Alliance formed in 1994 following the establishment of the Disabled Veteran Business Enterprise (DVBE) program by the California legislature in 1989. The California DVBE program set a 3% goal for DVBE participation in state contracts for goods and services. It also required eligible DVBEs to obtain certification of their capabilities by the state's Department of General Services before they could participate in the program. Their purpose is to support member businesses in their quest for success by: Creating business opportunities (With Government Agencies, private companies and other Alliance members); linking members with appropriate and timely information; collaborating to solve problems; and providing ongoing educational opportunities. Their KEEPING THE PROMISE exposition and match-making event is held annually in Los Angeles. This insightful gathering brings together corporate and government procurement professionals connecting face to face with qualified, competitive, certified disabled veteran businesses.

Description: With all the choices out there, shopping for a mortgage can seem like an overwhelming task. However, despite the many choices of where to get loans (banks, credit unions, savings and loans, insurance companies, and mortgage bankers) their offerings are pretty well standardized, in order to comply with government rules. Start by deciding what type of mortgage you're interested in. The main choices are between a fixed rate and adjustable rate mortgage, though some hybrids of the two are still available. Then, either start looking at mortgage rates yourself or go straight to a loan broker. It's wise to do some advance research even if you decide to work with a loan broker, so that you'll have a sense of the market. Also, ask banks and other private lenders about any first-time buyer programs that offer low down payment plans and flexible qualifying guidelines to low- and moderate-income buyers with good credit.

Issue: Help for People in Danger of Losing Their Homes
Program: Public File 1
Date: April 21, 2013

Description: Eighteen states, including California, have been designated as "hardest hit," either because they are struggling with unemployment rates at or above the national average or steep home price declines greater than 20 percent since the housing market downturn. The Hardest Hit Fund was created by President Obama to provide targeted aid to families in these states. On June 23, 2010, California received approval to develop four unique foreclosure prevention proposals with Hardest Hit funding. California was ultimately awarded nearly $2 billion in funds to help at least 100,000 eligible California homeowners avoid preventable foreclosures. California's programs, which are called Keep Your Home California, were developed in collaboration with numerous community partners, foreclosure counselors, housing advocates and others directly involved in helping struggling homeowners. Each of the Keep Your Home California programs is designed to address one or more aspects of the current housing crisis by: Helping low and moderate income homeowners retain their homes if they either have suffered a financial hardship such as unemployment; have experienced a change in household circumstance such as death.

Description: The goal of the Historic Old Sacramento Foundation is to realize the area's potential as California's hub of historic education and preservation. By offering engaging and authentic historic and cultural activities in Old Sacramento, the story of California's beginnings can be preserved and shared in a way that truly brings history to life. The HOSF is committed to providing high quality educational programs and events for Sacramento residents and visitors alike. The HOSF strives to offer a variety of unique, hands-on programs and exhibitions for children, youths, and adults. School programs are designed to meet the curriculum standards for the State of California and are available both on and off site. Historical walking tours, living history days, Street Theatre, and special events enhance the learning experience by inviting students of all ages to take part in the history of Sacramento.

Description: Ride To Walk's mission is to enhance the lives of children and young adults with neurological disabilities by providing innovative therapeutic horseback riding activities that are recreational in nature and adapted to the individual's needs and abilities. Ride To Walk strives to provide a positive support system for individuals with disabilities, their parents/caregivers, and our community. They currently provide weekly therapy sessions for children and young adults with disabilities such as: autism, cerebral palsy, muscular dystrophy, attention deficit disorder, head trauma and sensory processing challenges. The benefits of horseback riding are as numerous as the types of disabilities and conditions served. Research shows that students who participate in therapeutic riding can experience physical, emotional and mental rewards. Because horseback riding gently and rhythmically moves the rider's body in a manner similar to a human gait, riders with physical disabilities often show improvement in flexibility, balance and muscle strength. For individuals with mental or emotional disabilities, the unique relationship formed with the horse can lead to increased confidence, patience and self-esteem. The sense of independence found on horseback benefits all who ride. The therapeutic qualities of horseback riding are recognized by many medical professionals, including the American Physical Therapy Association and the American Occupational Therapy Association.

Issue: Tattoo Removal
Program: Public File 1
Date: May 5, 2013

Description: Eric Zacharias M.D. started Inkoff.me to fill what he saw as a need in the community. Having worked for some time in several local emergency departments, he was aware of the many gang tattoos and facial tattoos that can make it hard for an individual to find a job or leave a gang culture. Inkoff.me is a chance to give anyone who desires it, a clean slate. Laser tattoo removal uses laser light to break up tattoo ink into small particles that your body will absorb naturally. The laser penetrates the outer skin layers and only targets the tattoo ink. Your body's immune system then removes the particles. Black, red and dark blue color pigments are easiest to remove. Other colors, such as green, are more difficult to remove.

Description: Cystic fibrosis is an inherited chronic disease that affects the lungs and digestive system of about 30,000 children and adults in the United States (70,000 worldwide). A defective gene and its protein product cause the body to produce unusually thick, sticky mucus that clogs the lungs and leads to life-threatening lung infections and obstructs the pancreas and stops natural enzymes from helping the body break down and absorb food. The Cystic Fibrosis Foundation is the world's leader in the search for a cure for cystic fibrosis. They fund more CF research than any other organization, and nearly every CF drug available today was made possible because of Foundation support. They are a nonprofit donor-supported organization dedicated to attacking cystic fibrosis from every angle. Their focus is to support the development of new drugs to fight the disease, improve the quality of life for those with CF, and ultimately to find a cure. The Foundation played an integral role in the development and FDA approval of five therapies that are now part of regular treatment regimens for many with CF. Founded in 1989, they have helped over 5000 men & women recreate their lives. Their 20+ years of experience has resulted in a truly unique approach to recovery that works. Situated in Fair Oaks, California, C&S offers individuals and their families the 4 primary components for getting sober and more importantly "staying & living" clean and sober... Intervention, Detox, Residential Treatment, and Sober Living. Clean & Sober Detox offers a safe, confidential and caring environment with a medical component for successful withdrawal from alcohol and drugs. First and foremost they only accept 6 people at a time. This creates a very personal detox experience. Unlike most detox facilities, C&S is a real program with heart and compassion. Clean & Sober Residential Treatment is a 28 day program where clients learn about the disease of addiction and what is required to establish and maintain sobriety. With over 40 hours a week of individual and group treatment sessions (over twice as much required for California certification), 12 step meetings and family education our program effectively prepares people on how to "live" sober. A serene environment located on 2 acres, individualized 1 on1 sessions and the ever so important family education and involvement makes their program extremely effective.

Description: CLEAN & SOBER Transitional Living is the oldest and largest comprehensive singular resource in Northern California for recovery. Founded in 1989, they have helped over 5000 men & women recreate their lives. Their 20+ years of experience has resulted in a truly unique approach to recovery that works. Situated in Fair Oaks, California, C&S offers individuals and their families the 4 primary components for getting sober and more importantly "staying & living" clean and sober... Intervention, Detox, Residential Treatment, and Sober Living. Clean & Sober Detox offers a safe, confidential and caring environment with a medical component for successful withdrawal from alcohol and drugs. First and foremost they only accept 6 people at a time. This creates a very personal detox experience. Unlike most detox facilities, C&S is a real program with heart and compassion. Clean & Sober Residential Treatment is a 28 day program where clients learn about the disease of addiction and what is required to establish and maintain sobriety. With over 40 hours a week of individual and group treatment sessions (over twice as much required for California certification), 12 step meetings and family education our program effectively prepares people on how to "live" sober. A serene environment located on 2 acres, individualized 1 on1 sessions and the ever so important family education and involvement makes their program extremely effective.
